I. INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this review is to create a body of statistical data pertaining to the period 1961-1980 in order to:

- assist in determining the number of newcomers to Canada who do not speak one of Canada's official languages - English;
- provide information on the characteristics of such persons through cross-tabulations by age group category, sex, and year of immigration to Canada.

It is expected that the information resulting from these statistics will be of interest to those involved in immigrant reception and settlement, and in English-as-a-Second-Language activities, as well as to agencies serving the general public.

II. METHODOLOGY

This report aims to provide, in statistical tables, different aspects of the non-English speaking immigrant population. Of particular interest will be the year of immigration, sex, and age groups.

The two main sources of information for this publication are:

(1) Immigration statistics compiled by Statistics Canada in their Census publications for the census and inter-censal years 1961-1980. These include tables showing population by specific mother tongue, further sub-classified into English, French, and other languages.

(2) In addition to this, other useful information was provided by the Immigration and Demographic Policy Group of the Department of Employment and Immigration Canada. The information was retrieved from computer tapes, and the printouts give the data as follows: number of immigrants, number who converse in both English and French, French only, and other languages. These were aggregated by sex and by age groups.

Statistical tables were then compiled from this information and presented in as detailed and efficient a format as possible, to enable the reader to easily locate the information needed. Graphs were also provided to readily portray some significant distributions and trends.

The total number of non-English speaking immigrants is made up of both the immigrants who speak French only and those who speak neither English nor French.

The percentage of the total number of non-English speaking immigrants to the total number of immigrants was calculated in the first table. However, in the remaining tables, the percentage represented the ratio of the total number in each group to the total non-English speaking population.

Certain age groups were also aggregated to exhibit a more meaningful picture of the non-English speaking population:

0 - 12:	Those who would on arrival or later be in school (elementary grade);
13 - 19:	Those who might continue schooling;
20 - 34:	Those who constitute the younger group of the labour force;
35 - 64:	Those who constitute the older group of the labour force;
65+	Those who would not be engaged in the labour force.

An attempt was also made to aggregate the aforementioned data by 5-year groups.

III. OVERVIEW AND HIGHLIGHTS

The years 1961 to 1967 exhibit a low percentage of non-English speaking immigrants, that is, only 1 out of 10 persons could not speak English. With the exception of 1968, from 1969 to 1978, the percentage remained consistent, 1 out of 3 persons did not know English. The years 1979 and 1980 show a considerable increase of the non-English speaking population, about half of the total immigrants, or 1 out of 2, having no knowledge of the English language.

From 1961 to 1967, the greatest bulk of non-English speaking immigrants were in the age group 35-64, that is, at least 1 out of 2 belonged to this group. However, from 1968 to 1980, those in the age group 20-34 constituted the highest percentage, ranging from 31 to 40 percent. The two age groups, namely 0-12 and 35-64, show that 1 out of 4 immigrants did not speak English.

Before 1968, the percentage of the population who did not speak English ranged from 1 to 8 percent. After 1968 this percentage rose to 25 percent and this trend prevailed until 1980.

Another outstanding fact is that there are more females than males who do not know the English language. This pattern is evident through all the years until 1980, where their percentages are almost equal.

IV. GRAPHS AND TABLES

Statistical tables were aggregated from the available information. Together with these tables, graphs were also produced to give a pictorial representation of the important trends and distributions gathered from the tables.

The following is a chronological list of graphs and tables:
